PREFACE

Vocabulary. - This speller represents an attempt to teach only the essential words of the written vocabularies of children and adults. These essential words are those that are used frequently by the majority of people, and not those used occasionally by a few. It is an effort to study the spelling problem scientifically. It advocates fewer words and more drill, for investigation has shown that the spelling vocabulary that is common to a group of adults is surprisingly small. The regular lessons of this book, therefore, present the two thousand most important words, while supplementary lists contain more than a thousand words that are less important or less difficult. The words in the regular lessons for each half grade should first be carefully studied, and then, if there is sufficient time, the words of the supplementary list of that half grade should be learned.

The selection of these three thousand words represents a vast amount of labor extending over a period of several years. Thousands of children's compositions from the Horace Mann School and other schools have been examined, and use has been made of the scientific studies of adults' and children's vocabularies by Jones, Ayres, Pryor, Eldridge, Smith, Woolfolk, Cook and O'Shea, and Chancellor. All of the one thousand words of the Ayres Measuring Scale are given in the book. The resulting list contains not only words which children are most likely to use in their daily written work but also words which they will most probably use after leaving school. Furthermore, since these vocabulary studies have been made in various parts of the country, the composite list is free from the influence of any particular locality.

These words have been carefully graded on the basis of their use by children in written compositions.

This limited, basal vocabulary of about three thousand words should be supplemented to meet the special needs of different groups of children. Since it is obvious that no single textbook can meet completely such varied conditions, teachers should add such words of local importance as are peculiarly needed by their pupils. Near the end of the book (pages $167-171$ ) are lists of words for rural, urban, and industrial communities from which such words may be chosen.

Finally, the vocabulary of every textbook needs supplementation from the personal vocabulary of the individual pupil. Each child is somewhat different from every other in his personal experiences and impressions. This leads to the spontaneous use of words not on the common list. These must be mastered if the individual's writing is to be free of misspellings. The personal spelling list of troublesome words for individual study is a necessity in final spelling efficiency.

Method. - Psychological evidence now shows clearly that correct spelling results chiefly from appropriate and continuous drill. In the Directions to Teachers (pages vii to xii) such a drill method is described in detail. It has been successfully used in a number of schools for several years, and represents results obtained from the best experimental data available.

Flexibility. - The use of this book is not confined to any single device. The Directions to Teachers show how some teachers may follow the plan of the book more or less rigidly, while others may use the book in a manner that will allow the pupil more initiative and judgment. The aim should always be to make it possible for pupils to acquire good methods of study.

Reviews. - Adequate review of all words in the regular lessons is provided ; but the words that thousands of children have found most difficult to spell, including the socalled "Hundred Demons" ${ }^{1}$ and others, are reviewed more often than the easier words.

The Dictation Review exercises employ, with rare exceptions, only words previously taught. The sentences are short, and are better for this purpose than selections from literature because the pupil's time is not wasted in memorizing the spelling of unusual words.

Simplicity. - Since the words taught are the common ones found in children's written vocabularies, much time can be saved in developing their meaning. Furthermore, no artificial means are needed to awaken interest through pictures or other devices.

No diacritical marks are given, except in the dictionary pronouncing lists and in a few footnotes, as it is believed that the main reliance in spelling should be placed upon the correct visualization of the word to be learned, and that this image should not be confused by such marks. When a word [^0]is first presented on the printed page, its division into syllables is indicated by a slight spacing, because it is believed that this will help the pupil to see the word accurately. When the word appears again, however, among the review words of the next lesson, syllabication is not indicated.

The dictionary pronouncing lists at the back of the book show, from the fourth grade on, the markings found in Webster's New International Dictionary, Webster's Second-ary-School Dictionary, Webster's Elementary-School Dictionary, etc. These lists are primarily for the teacher, but may also be consulted by pupils and will serve to familiarize them with dictionary usage.

DIRECTIONS FOR TEACHERS

Method. - It has been proved by careful experimentation ${ }^{1}$ that class drill under the direction of the teacher is more efficient than individual study by the unsupervised pupil. The time on the daily program devoted to spelling should be spent largely on class drill under the direction of the teacher; in other words, it should be devoted to teaching rather than to testing. The following procedure for the spelling period is suggested, but there should be sufficient change to insure variety.

In each group of words (in the Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth Grades) the two new words of the lesson are indicated by heavy type, while the review words appear in ordinary type. Write one of the two new words on the blackboard in its normal form and teach it in accordance with the following plan. Then erase it and write the other word, teaching it in the same way.
(a) While writing the word, pronounce it distinctly.
(b) Develop the meaning orally, either by calling on the pupils for a sentence using the word, or by giving such a sentence or the definition of the word.
(c) Show the syllables into which the word is divided, either by drawing vertical lines between the syllables or by covering parts of the word so as to expose only one syllable at a time. Call on pupils to spell orally by syllables. Have them indicate the part of the word that presents difificulties, or the part of the word they already know.

^1 Have the pupils write the word on practice paper several times, spelling it quietly as they write.
(e) Allow the class a moment in which to look at the word again, and then have them close their eyes and try to visualize it. Use other devices of a similar nature. Provide considerable repetition, both oral and written.

After the second word is erased, the complete list of new and review words in the day's lesson should be studied from the book. Allow the class three or four minutes for independent study of this whole list, urging each pupil to spend the most time on the words he thinks difficult. The time for this independent study should be limited so that every pupil will attend vigorously and intensively. Call upon pupils individually and in concert to spell the whole list without looking at the book. Refer them to the book again when they hesitate. After this short period of intensive study, dictate all the words to the class, using each word in a sentence first, then pronouncing it alone, distinctly.

Special Recommendations. - (r) Have each pupil keep in a notebook an alphabetical list of troublesome individual words, and see that he reviews this frequently. Occasionally test him on this list.
(2) The teacher should form a class list of troublesome words and have frequently a review lesson (with class drill) on these words.
(3) In the general reviews of all words taught some form of competition is desirable, such as spelling matches or team contests, with permanent records kept of team results.
(4) Beginning with the Fourth Grade the habit of going to the dictionary to verify the spelling or pronunciation of a word should be urged, and appropriate class exercises in the use of the dictionary should be systematically given.
(5) An important duty of the teacher is to develop a spelling consciousness. This may be secured by making the pupil feel that he should look over all written work to discover spelling errors, and that he should verify the spelling of a doubtful word from the dictionary or from some persoǹ before attempting to write it. Discourage guessing.
(6) Do not waste time during the spelling period in developing the definition of a word that is fairly well understood by the class. The contextual use of the word in a variety of good sentences is a good and brief method of teaching its meaning. The class period should give a large amount of varied drill in the actual spelling of the new words of the lesson.
(7) The emphasis with younger children should be upon an auditory method of drill and with older children upon a visual method, but no single method should be used exclusively. The pupil should see, hear, pronounce, and write.
(8) Remember that repetition should be accompanied by attention, and that motivation lessens the need of repetition; hence the folly of requiring pupils " to write a word twenty-five times " mechanically.
(9) It is advisable to teach short groups of words in their natural relations.

| too cold | there is |
| :--- | :--- |
| to school | their mother |
| two boys | ought to have gone |

This is true particularly of homonyms.
(ı) Avoid calling attention unnecessarily to the wrong form; for example, never say "Do not use two l's in until," but say rather " Notice the one $l$ in until."

Conduct of Review Lessons. - Some form of competition will furnish a desirable stimulus in reviews. This rivalry may be between two groups or teams in a room, each with its chosen captain, or between two rooms, or each pupil may compete against his own record. In the latter case, charts showing the weekly or monthly progress of each pupil should be posted in a conspicuous place in the classroom. If these reviews are written, which as a rule is advisable, the words should be dictated in sentences or connected discourse. The short sentences for dictation found in the textbook may be used for this purpose, or the teacher may formulate a new context.

Occasional oral spelling contests furnish a desirable variation. In the conduct of spelling matches avoid the danger (a) of giving the poor spellers the least drill, and (b) of having incorrect spellings repeated too often. This may be done by the teacher's spelling the word correctly orally and in writing, when a child misspells, and crediting the opposite side with one point. The teacher may then require the child to write the misspelled word on a slip of paper, allowing him to remain in line so as to secure the benefit of further drill with his team. At the end of the contest, the pupils who have slips of paper may be called up by the teacher for individual drill on the words they missed.

How the Book May Be Used. - (I) If it is apparent to the teacher that her class needs drill on about all the words given in the text for their grade, the order of the book should be followed. In Grades Two to Six the words in each group under the Arabic numbers are designed for a day's lesson, the words in heavy type being the new words for intensive study, and the others being review words. These should be studied by the method described above. Each lesson called " Dictation Review" reviews the new words of the preceding four lessons as well as many important words previously taught. The sentences for Dictation Review furnish appropriate material for testing these review words. At the end of each two months' work a summary of all words presented in that period is given, and enough time should be spent on this list to insure thorough mastery by all the class. Again at the end of each half year's work a careful review of these words should be made. A list of the words taught in each half grade is printed at the end of the book, arranged in alphabetical order. Beginning with the Fourth Grade, dictionary markings are added, so that these half-yearly review lists may be consulted at any time for the correct pronunciation of a word. The pupils should be taught the use of the diacritic marks, as a preparation for using the dictionary.
(2) If it is apparent that a considerable number of the words assigned to a grade are already known by a majority of the class, it is obviously a waste of time and effort to drill upon all words alike. Under such conditions the wise teacher will first find what words the class already knows and then concentrate her attention on those words that require special drill. Such a procedure requires skill and adaptability on the part of the teacher, but is highly effective. The teacher may first test her class upon the eight new words of a given week by means of the sentences under Dictation Review. Then class and individual drill may be given to those words that are apparently unknown. If, however, it is desirable to have the preliminary test cover a larger unit of work, the bi-monthly review list can be used, all the dictation sentences of that interval serving as material for the initial test. The words that need special emphasis will thus be revealed, and appropriate drill upon them should follow. The teacher will probably find many words that should be taught to all her pupils by the classdrill method, while others that present special difficulties to certain pupils only should be studied by them independently. Much of the time saved by such a method should be spent in teaching the class the words from the supplementary lists of the proper grade.

SECOND GRADE

First Half Year

To the Teacher. Please read carefully the Directions to Teachers on pages vii-xii before beginning to use this book.

The following simple words are usually learned during the First Grade. All of them are used in the dictation reviews of the Second Grade. Before proceeding with the Second Grade you should review the class on this list, if necessary, to be sure that every pupil can spell each word.

47. Vowels and Consonants - Spelling Rule I

The letters $a, e, i, o, u$ (and sometimes $w$ and $y^{1}$ ) are called vowels. The name consonants is given to all letters that are not vowels.

With what letter does each of these words end? Is the letter before the last in each word a vowel or a consonant?

[^4]Sometimes we wish to add ing to these words, but a simple change is made before doing so. The $e$ is dropped and then ing is added, like this :
have - having come - coming ride-riding
Spelling Rule I. - A word ending in $e$ with a consonant before it, drops the $e$ when ing is added.

Following the rule, add ing to these words:

| give | skate | name | use |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| hope | place | leave | race |
| make | write | change | please |
| take | like | smoke | dance |

200. Dictation Exercise - Friendly Letter Newtown, Ky.

February 12, 1918
Dear Miss Cook, -
You were very kind to write me a letter telling what is going on in school.

I have been sick a whole week. I don't like it, for the days are too long, and there is no fun.

The doctor says I am getting better. He lets me read a little every day. I wish I had some picture books to look at.

I shall have to study hard when I get back to school. I hope that will be soon.

> Yours truly,

May Little

135. Plural of Nouns

We have already learned that most nouns form their plurals by adding $s$ or es to the singular form; thus, bushel, bushels; church, churches.

A noun ending in $y$ with a consonant before it, changes $y$ to $i$ and adds es to form the plural; thus, lady, ladies; baby, babies. See Spelling Rule II, page 85.
If the noun ends in $y$ with a vowel before it, the plural is formed regularly by adding $s$; thus, boy, boys; key, keys.

Write the plural forms of the following nouns and use them in sentences of your own:

| injury | factory | toy | country |

Mr. Robert Marston  Yonkers, N. Y.

Dear Sir:
In reply to your advertisement for an office boy in to-day's "Sun," I wish to apply for the position.
I am fifteen years of age and a graduate of Public School No. 65. I have also had a summer's experience in this kind of work and will do my best if you decide to give me a trial.
I refer you by permission to Miss Arnold, principal of Public School No. 65 , and to A. E. Johnson & Co., for whom I worked last summer. Respectfully yours, John A. Wells

SEVENTH GRADE

First Half Year

Note to the Teacher. - The plan of the book that has been followed in the earlier grades is discontinued in the seventh and eighth grades in the belief that pupils are now able to study by a more mature and independent method. All the words given in the numbered columns are new words. No review words are listed, except in the bimonthly reviews, because with pupils of this age increasing emphasis should be placed upon each pupil's keeping his own list of troublesome words for review study. These individual lists should be reviewed frequently under the direction of the teacher. Only four words are given in each column because it is believed that not more than four new words can be mastered thoroughly by the pupils of these grades in a spelling period.

As is stated on pages xi-xii, it is strongly recommended that the teacher should first find how many words of a given large group, - in this grade, sixteen or more words, - the pupils already know. When this has been determined from a preliminary test, the words that need special study should be learned by the method described on pages vii-viii, or by any other appropriate drill device. In all testing, the teacher should first give orally a simple sentence or phrase using the word, and then repeat the required word. For example, "I am eager to begin the game. Eager."

27. Dictation Exercises

I. Keep your friends by fidelity, conquer your foes by kindness, win all by goodness and courtesy.
2. Learn economy and you start on the road to success. All fortunes have their foundations laid in thrift.
— Thrift Mottoes.

[^15]3. On that shore, dimly seen through the mists of the deep,

Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes, What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep,

As it fitfully blows, now conceals, now discloses? Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam, In full glory reflected now shines on the stream. 'Tis the star-spangled banner! Oh, long may it wave O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

- Francis Scott Key.

37. Adverbs

The adverb naturally is formed from the adjective natural by adding the suffix $l y$. In most adjectives that end in $l e$, the $e$ is dropped and only $y$ is added. For example, adjective capable, adverb capably; gentle, gently. In most adjectives that end in $y$, the $y$ is changed to $i$ when $l y$ is added. Thus, adjective hearty, adverb heartily.

Form correct adverbs from the following adjectives by adding $l y$, or changing $l e$ to $l y$, or changing $y$ to $i l y$; and use the adverbs in written sentences of your own.

It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, - that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth. - Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

31. Principal Parts of the Verb

The principal parts of a verb are the three forms from which the other parts of that verb may be formed. For example, the principal parts of the verb write are present tense write, "I write often to my mother," past tense or preterit wrote, "I wrote a letter yesterday," and past participle written, "I have written a long letter."

The principal parts of many of the most familiar verbs are formed irregularly, so that they must be learned by heart. Memorize the principal parts of the following verbs, and write sentences of your own using each of the forms.

| Present Tense | Past Tense, or Preterit | Past Participle |
| :---: | :---: | :---: |
| am | was | been |
| do | did | done |
| eat | ate | eaten |
| go | went | gone |
| see | saw | seen |

The principal parts of a verb may be found in the dictionary. For example, the verb draw appears in the dictionary thus:
draw, v. $t$. ; pret. DREW ; p. p. DRAWN ; p. pr. © vb. n. DRAWING.
The principal parts are draw, drew, drawn.
With the help of your teacher find the principal parts of the following verbs and memorize them.

| drink | drive | know | ride | ring | wear |

Five great professions have hitherto existed in every civilized nation. The soldier's profession is to defend it ; the pastor's to teach it ; the physician's to keep it in health; the lawyer's to enforce justice in it. And the duty of all these men is, on due occasion, to die for it. - Ruskin.

The Liberty Trust Company  Second Avenue  Seattle, Washington

Gentlemen :
I have just learned through a friend in Seattle that you are looking for a girl to assist in the Savings Department, and I should like to be considered as an applicant for the position.
I was graduated in June from the High School of Salem, and can refer you to the Principal, Mr. Henry S. Jones, for my general standing during the four years I spent there.
Miss Grace Thompson, teacher of mathematics and elementary bookkeeping, has kindly promised to write fully in regard to my work in her department.
If you wish to see me personally, I shall be glad to call at the bank at any time convenient to you.

Yours very truly
Alice E. Pierce

94. Dictation Exercise

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.

USE OF THE DICTIONARY

(To be studied with the help of the teacher.)
The dictionary is a book to which you should refer when you wish to know the spelling, pronunciation, or meaning of a word. You must know the letters of the alphabet in their proper order before you can use the dictionary.

It is somewhat difficult to learn how to pronounce a word accurately. Although there are only twenty-six letters in the alphabet, they represent more than forty different sounds. The following table shows how these sounds are indicated in the pronunciations in Webster's New International Dictionary and the various school dictionaries that use the same system.

| $\overline{\mathrm{a}}$ in mate | ẽ in over | ô in lord | $\overline{\text { ù in use, tune }}$ |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| $\frac{1}{2}$ in climate | $f$ in fat | $\bigcirc \mathrm{o}$ in not | $\frac{1}{4}$ in unite |
| a in care | g in get, beg | $\breve{o}$ in connect | a in burn |
| a in mat | $h$ in hat | 8 \% in soft | ù in up |
| $\breve{a}$ in final | $i$ in pine | oi in oil | $\breve{u}$ in circus |
| a in ah, far | ${ }_{1}$ in pin | $\overline{00}$ in boot | $v$ in vote |
| a in ask | j in joke | oo in foot | - w in want |
| $\dot{a}$ in sofa | k in kick | ou in house | y in yard |
| b in baby | 1 in lip | $p$ in pet | $z$ in buzz |
| ch in chair | $m$ in man | r in red | $z \mathrm{~h}$ for sound of $z$ in |
| d in day | $n$ in no | $s$ in so, this | azure |
| dut in verdure | ng in long | sh in shut | ' for a mere vocal |
| $\overline{\text { ex }}$ in me | $y$ in bank | $t$ in ten | murmur, or the |
| te in enough | (like ng) | th in thin | elision of a vowel, |
| ě in met | $\bar{o}$ in bone | th in that | as in the word |
| $e e_{e}$ in novel | $\delta$ in obey | tid in nature | eaten (èt'n) |

The diacritical marks are named as follows: - long, ${ }^{\star}$ modified long, ^ circumflex, ` short, ~ tilde ; ä is called Italian a; $\dot{a}$ is medial a, the sound halfway between $\breve{a}$ and ä; $\delta$ is medial o , the sound halfway between ŏ and ô. In the pronunciations $g$ is always "hard" as in get, beg (excepting ng ); s is always "sharp" as in so, this (excepting sh). Thus (hěns) represents the pronunciation of hence, - not of hens, which is pronounced (hĕnz).

Spelling Rules

I. A word ending in $e$ with a consonant before it, drops the $e$ when ing is added; thus have - having come - coming

To make word forms ending in ed, er, or est, a word that ends in $e$ adds only $d, r$, or $s t$; thus, tire, tired; wise, wiser, wisest.
II. A word ending in $y$ with a consonant before it, keeps $y$ when ing is added, but changes $y$ to $i$ when ed or es is added; thus cry - crying, cried, cries city - cities

Almost all words ending in $y$ with a consonant before it, also change $y$ to $i$ when er, est, or $l y$ - or any other suffix not beginning with $i$ - is added; thus, lazy, lazier, laziest, lazily, laziness.
III. A word of one syllable that ends in a single consonant with a single vowel before it, doubles the final consonant when ing, ed, er, est, or $y$ is added ; thus hit — hitting rub - rubbing, rubbed big — bigger, biggest mud - muddy
IV. A word of more than one syllable that accents the last syllable, and that ends in a single consonant with a single vowel before it, doubles the final consonant when ing, ed, or er is added ; thus control - controlling, controlled, controller

THIS BOOK IS DUE ON THE LAST DATE STAMPED BELOW
AN INITIAL FINE OF 25 CENTS WILL BE ASSESSED FOR FAILURE TO RETURN THIS BOOK ON THE DATE DUE. THE PENALTY WILL INCREASE TO 50 CENTS ON THE FOURTH DAY AND TO $$ 1.00$ ON THE SEVENTH DAY OVERDUE.
